COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course will begin with an overview of the French Enlightenment, often seen as one of the most important sites in the construction of “modernity.” After an attempt to define the Enlightenment against the backdrop of traditionalist assumptions, we will consider various interpretations of the Enlightenment (from Peter Gay’s defense of it as a “recovery of nerve” to Michel Foucault’s critique as the origins of the “disciplinary society”). Next, we will consider one of the thorniest problems facing historians of the period: namely, the relation between the ideas of Enlightenment and the events of the Revolution.

Finally, we will take on the French Revolution itself. Our first concern will be reconstructing a narrative account of the Revolution, from its liberal origins, through the radicalism of the Terror during its middle years, to its thrust onto the larger European stage during the Napoleonic years. Finally, we will examine the great historiographical debates that have engaged several generations of historians over the meaning and significance of the French Revolution.

LEARNING GOALS AND EXPECTED OUTCOMES

At the successful completion of this a course a student should expect:

- to have acquired a general knowledge of the political, social, and cultural history of France in the eighteenth century
- to know how to interpret primary source material and integrate such interpretations into a larger understanding of the period
- to be able evaluate scholarship on the Enlightenment and French Revolution from a wide variety of perspectives
- to be able to analyze and synthesize historical material and to demonstrate these skills in the semester paper and the two essay exams

READING LIST:

1. Books to be purchased:

Dorinda Outram, The Enlightenment (Cambridge)

Jeremy Popkin, A Short History of the French Revolution (Prentice Hall)

Lynn Hunt, Culture, Politics, and Class in the French Revolution
(University of California)

2. On Electronic Reserve:

All the other readings are on Electronic Reserve (ER) and can be downloaded by going to Blackboard, scrolling down to HIS 567, clicking, then scrolling down to e-reserves (on left) and clicking again.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Attendance. Attendance is required not optional. The class depends on your regular attendance and participation. Only officially certified absences will be accepted. All unexcused absences will affect your grade. Beyond two, they will seriously affect your grade.

Examinations. A mid-term and a final. Essay format. The final examination will be given on the last day of class.

Semester Paper

--Requirements for Undergraduate Students. Recommended length: eight pages. All papers should be typed, double-spaced, and fully documented. The topic should be an interpretive problem, selected from topics covered on the course syllabus, and approved by me. The vehicle for this approval will be a short but thoughtfully-conceived and well-written prospectus describing your interpretive problem. You should also include a short bibliography indicating the sources that you intend to use. These sources must include at least one book and two articles beyond the assigned course reading. All sources must be serious pieces of historical scholarship (if in question, check with me). All "due dates" (see below), barring certified medical emergencies or family sickness, are to be taken seriously; late papers will be marked down at the discretion of the instructor.

--Requirements for Graduate Students. Recommended length: ten to twelve pages. All papers should be typed, double-spaced, and fully documented. The topic should be an interpretive problem, selected from material covered in the course, and approved by me. The vehicle for this approval will be a short but thoughtfully-conceived and well-written prospectus describing your interpretive problem. You should also include a short bibliography indicating the sources that you intend to use. These sources must include at least three books and three articles beyond the assigned course reading. All sources must be serious pieces of historical scholarship (if in question, check with me). All "due dates" (see below), barring certified medical emergencies or family sickness, are to be taken seriously; late papers will be marked down at the discretion of the instructor.

Discussion. The readings are keyed to syllabus topics. You should have the readings completed before the day a particular topic is scheduled to be addressed in class; this is especially important for days designated for a discussion of particular readings (indicated by a "D"). Your discussion grade will be determined by the frequency and quality of your contribution to class discussion.

Grades. The following elements will determine the final grade:

mid-term exam--30%
 final exam--30%
 paper--30%
 discussion grade--10%

--Undergraduate Grading Scale. The undergraduate grading scale cut-off are as follows:

A+	97	C	73
A	93	C-	70
A-	90	D+	67
B+	87	D	63
B	83	D-	60
B-	80	F	59
C+	77

--Graduate Grading Scale. The graduate grading scale is the same as the undergraduate scale with two exceptions: first, "A" is the highest possible grade; second, "C" is the lowest possible passing grade (anything below a "C" is recorded as an "F").

Plagiarism and the Academic Honor Code. Plagiarism is a serious academic crime that occurs when someone uses the words or ideas of someone else without giving that person credit in a formal citation. Punishment for violations are outlined in the Academic Integrity Policy. For an explanation see the UNCG website under "Academic Integrity Policy."
