Class meets August 23 through December 1; midterm Th, October 6; final exam Th, December 1

COURSE DESCRIPTION AND OBJECTIVES

This interdisciplinary study of Western Civilization examines critical developments and ideas in the period from 1492, with the voyages of Columbus and the exploration and settlement of the New World, to the Cold War era. We will use primary and secondary source materials to explore the social, cultural, and political history that shaped the West. We will engage in study and discussion of relationships of power, including slavery, gender, racism, war, and imperialism, to move beyond the narrative of progress and better understand the complexity at work in the modern world. Generous time will be spent learning to analyze and appreciate various historical documents, and then using those sources as evidence in our discussions and assignments.

Through active participation in this course, students will

- Discuss major events in the Western world and identify their causes, outcomes, and participants
- Trace connections among people and events over time
- Use historical documents to draw conclusions about factors that led to political, economic, and social developments in the West
- Develop arguments based in historical inquiry for classroom discussions and written assignments

TEXTBOOK AND OTHER COURSE MATERIALS

Judith G. Coffin and Robert C. Stacey, Western Civilizations, Second Brief Edition (Volume 2)
The required textbook is available new and used in the university bookstore and online at a discount through several retailers [Additional textbook information: Release: 2008 Edition: Brief Publisher: W. W. Norton & Company Format: Paperback ISBN 13: 9780393932362]

You will access all other required course materials through Blackboard and the textbook website. Use the link below to access the website. Select the current chapter for study materials and the chapter quiz each week one is assigned.

Familiarize yourself with Blackboard and the textbook website right away and be prepared to use them routinely to find documents and other materials, check your grades, and read announcements pertaining to the course.

COURSE EXPECTATIONS

Students can expect to spend, on average, 10 to 14 hours per week in and out of class per course. Your textbook reading and documents combined will average about 50 pages most weeks. You should plan to read the chapter all the way through once, taking notes as you read, and then look over the chapter and your notes at least once more. You will benefit from reading most of the primary documents assigned for this course at least twice, especially since the language used in many of the documents was often quite different from our own. You will also need to schedule time each week to take your chapter quiz and review your notes. Those weeks when you have an exam you will not have a chapter quiz, but may find that you still need to spend extra time on this course.

We will divide our class time each week between lecture and discussion. I will use PowerPoint to guide you through the lectures and provide focus. The PowerPoint slides are designed to highlight key terms, events, and ideas rather than a complete set of notes, so you should expect to take notes beyond the information provided on the slides. If you miss a class, make arrangements to get notes from a fellow student.

If you need to turn an assignment in late, contact me via email prior to the class meeting when the assignment is due. In cases of emergency, your work will not be penalized, although you will need to provide verification that you had an actual emergency, and the assignment is due when you return to class. All other late assignments will be penalized 15% and are due no later than the class meeting following the original due date, after which they will not be accepted.

A Note on Plagiarism: Plagiarism is the act of representing the work of someone else as your own. It is an extremely serious offense that can result in expulsion from school. You may effectively avoid this offense by paraphrasing rather than copying from sources and using proper citations in your written work. Review and understand the UNCG Academic Integrity Policy in the student handbook as all written work is covered by its provisions.

ASSIGNMENTS

Your assignments consist of chapter readings from the textbook, primary and secondary source documents found on the textbook website and Blackboard, short in-class responses to the reading, and online quizzes. The textbook reading assignment includes the primary documents found in each chapter, such as those on pp. 437, 440-441, and 445 in chapter 16, unless stated otherwise. We will routinely discuss the assigned primary documents in class, and they will be included on your exams.

Chapter quizzes are administered through the textbook website and consist of 15 multiple-choice questions. You take these at your convenience during the weeks assigned, and submit your results electronically by midnight Friday. You may skip one quiz without penalty and if you complete all of them you will receive extra credit.

We will frequently engage in discussions in class, and your participation grade is based on your contributions to those discussions, occasional short writing assignments and pop quizzes, and your attendance. Students who do not routinely contribute to class discussions cannot expect to receive an A for the participation grade.

The exam format is identification, multiple choice, and short answer; the midterm will cover the lectures, readings, and other assignments through October 4, and the final exam will cover all material from October 13 forward.

Grades will be calculated as follows:

Midterm 25%

Final Exam 25%

Quizzes 25%

Participation and Attendance 25%

ATTENDANCE

Regular attendance is an important part of your success in a college course. You are allowed three (3) absences without penalty. You are not required to contact me or explain your absences if you miss three or fewer classes, but you should use these absences judiciously. If you have additional absences due to a medical emergency or some unforeseen event, send an email notification in advance, or within 24 hours of the missed class meeting in cases of emergency, AND provide a doctor's note or other official notification (jury duty, e.g.) on the date you return to class. If you miss additional classes without a verifiable excuse, you will incur a penalty of one letter grade (10 points) off your participation grade for each additional unexcused absence up to five (5), after which you will receive a zero for your participation grade.

You should avoid arriving late or leaving early, as you miss important material and it causes a distraction for everyone else. If you have an occasion when it cannot be avoided, please let me know the reason. Students will incur penalties as for absences in cases of excessive tardiness or instances of leaving class early.

Be sure to sign or initial the roster every class meeting.

COMMUNICATION

Feel free to talk to me before or after class, schedule a meeting during my office hours, or send me an email if you have any course-related questions or concerns.

Email is the best way to contact me outside of class. Please enter WCV102 in the subject line. I will confirm receipt of your email within 48 hours. If you have not received a response from me within 48 hours, you should assume that I did not receive your email and resend. This is especially important if you are emailing me regarding a missed class or assignment.

ELECTRONIC DEVICES

In order for you to be fully engaged and get the most out of the classroom experience, please turn off – not merely silence – all electronic devices before class begins. You may be asked to leave class, resulting in an unexcused absence, if you violate this policy.

COURSE SCHEDULE

Note that reading assignments include the primary documents in the textbook chapter (such as those on pp. 437, 440-441, and 445 in chapter 16, unless stated otherwise) and additional primary and secondary sources as assigned on Blackboard each week.
