Welcome! This class will explore the unique and fascinating histories of the modern nations of Mexico, Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador, Nicaragua, and Costa Rica from their original native civilizations, to their conquest and rule by people from Spain, to the independent republics of today. We will examine the region’s culture, society, and politics, emphasizing its indigenous heritage, the legacy of colonialism and race-mixing, the influence of the United States and other foreign financial and military powers, and the challenges of modernity.

The history of Mexico and Central America is important to us today because our hemisphere is demographically, economically, and culturally integrated like never before. The United States is one of the world’s largest Spanish-speaking nations, and Americans of Latin American background—most of whose families are from Mexico and Central America—constitute its largest ethnic minority. North America from Alaska to the Panama Canal is in many ways a giant free trade zone, with profound consequences for workers and consumers in each of its nations. And just as business is transnational, so are families and even individuals. Predominately Hispanophone cities such as Miami and Los Angeles are firmly within the Latin American cultural sphere, consuming the same media and participating in the same conversations. Students who complete this course will be in a better position to understand and navigate the transnational politics, culture, and economy of our present and future.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES (SLOs):
As a GN marker course, HIS-320 addresses the following College-level SLOs defined by UNCG’s General Education Program (see http://undergraduate.uncg.edu/colleagues/gened.php):

1. Find, interpret, and evaluate information on diverse cultures. (LG1, LG3)
2. Describe interconnections among regions of the world, focusing on cultures, nations or sub-nationalities in the Caribbean, Latin America, Middle East/North Africa, Asia, Africa, Pacific Islands, or indigenous peoples around the world). (LG1, LG3)
3. Use diverse cultural frames of reference and perspectives to analyze issues. (LG3, LG5)
TEACHING METHODS FOR ACHIEVING LEARNING OUTCOMES: As an upper-level course designed primarily for history majors, the graded component will consist mostly of reading comprehension and writing. Grades will be given for: 1) attendance; 2) a geographical quiz on Mexico and Central America; 3) a number of short responses to reading assignments, posted to an online journal; 4) two essays (~5-6 pages) in response to the novels; and 5) a final paper treating both lecture material and class readings. See topical outline for explanations of learning outcomes.

EVALUATION AND GRADING: Grades are calculated according to the following scheme:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Component</th>
<th>Percentage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Attendance</td>
<td>10%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Map Quiz</td>
<td>10%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Short Assignments</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Essay 1</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Essay 2</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Final Paper</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A = fulfills assignment entirely while amply demonstrating original insight and reflection
B = fulfills assignment entirely and thoughtfully
C = mostly fulfills assignment, but without originality (e.g., merely echoes the instructor)
D = partially incomplete, or betrays non-comprehension of theme or issue
F = severely incomplete, irrelevant, plagiarized, or never turned in

TEXTS
This course requires heavy—but interesting!—reading. We will not be using a textbook; instead, we will explore a number of primary sources, fiction and nonfiction, written by and about the people we are studying at different moments in their history. The following three required texts are available at the UNCG bookstore; the rest I will post in pdf format to the course website.
- Mariano Azuela, The Underdogs, translated by Gustavo Pellón (Indianapolis, IN: Hackett, 2006).

ATTENDANCE AND PARTICIPATION
Attendance at all class meetings is mandatory, and I do not distinguish between “excused” and “unexcused” absences. Understanding that life happens, all students will start with a “perfect” attendance score (that is, 100 points, or A+) and are allowed three absences without penalty. After that, I will subtract 20 points per missed class. I may drop any student with more than 6 unexplained absences. Since lateness is disruptive, I will also penalize excessive or habitual tardiness 5-10pts.

Students are expected to be attentive at all times and to participate in discussions and group activities. Disruptive individuals may be asked to leave, counting as an unexcused absence. This includes (but is not limited to): talking loudly, texting, surfing websites unrelated to class, and sleeping. My main concern is not “forcing” you to learn, but how disruptive students affect others. If you do not wish to abide these rules, please consider another course.

Assigned readings are to be completed before the class in which the material is discussed. You cannot discuss the readings if you have not read them. I will deduct 5-10 points from students who are regularly unprepared to participate in discussions and group activities.

STANDARDS AND POLICIES FOR WRITTEN WORK

As historians, your ability to write in clear and articulate prose is very important. I expect the essays to meet basic university writing standards, especially regarding spelling and grammar. Proofread and spell-check everything, as clarity and quality will affect your grade.

Take special care not to plagiarize. Plagiarism – that is, when you quote or paraphrase somebody else’s words or ideas without crediting him or her – is the academic equivalent of lying, cheating, or stealing. Every word you write in this class must be your own, not copied from any other source, whether in print or online, unless clearly indicated. If in doubt, ask! The UNCG Academic Integrity Policy is online at http://academicintegrity.uncg.edu. I will fail any student who has plagiarized, and report him or her to the dean.

CLASS WEBSITE AND EMAIL

You must have a working email address, and check it regularly, as it is the main means of communication out of class. I will send out reminders, assignments, and other announcements regularly.

The website on Blackboard will also play a major role. I will post the mandatory readings, topics for short assignments, study questions, links, and other materials necessary to perform well. The online journals are set up on the Blackboard platform. Occasionally, I will also use the website to follow up on themes covered in lectures and discussions, and respond to student questions. You should check the website regularly for updates.

CLASSROOM ETIQUETTE

In this course we will often discuss sensitive and emotionally charged topics, such as race, class, gender, imperialism, exploitation, and immigration. We will also see and read primary materials representing archaic and (frankly) offensive perspectives. As they are part of our history (whether we like it or not), we will not censor or ignore them, and students should be prepared to address them directly and in a mature, academic fashion.

In discussions, we will not always agree with one another, yet we welcome diverse interpretations, as a discussion where everyone agrees is more of a pep rally than a classroom, unlikely to be enlightening. We aim to foster an atmosphere in which all students feel free to express their ideas, and in which we can disagree and challenge one another openly without feeling threatened or disrespected. Thus, personal attacks and offensive language will not be tolerated, since they obstruct honest debate. A good rule to keep in mind: when challenging another’s arguments, try to do so in a way that assumes good faith on his or her part. Address the strongest aspects of his or her ideas, not a cartoonish, simplistic, and easily dismissed version of them. This rule has the added benefit of requiring each of us to think harder and question our own assumptions.

Have a great semester!
