Course Description

This course will examine global issues in the contemporary world, focusing mainly on the post-World War II period, from the dropping of atomic bombs on Japan in August 1945, to the complex, high-tech, evolving world of today. We will examine some of the important political, economic, social, and cultural changes of the second half of the twentieth century and how these changes have shaped the world we live in today. World History, however, is such a broad subject that one could attempt to teach everything, but teach nothing at all. Therefore, the instructor has chosen the Cold War as a theme for the course. This course will examine world history since 1945 through the prism of the Cold War.

Student Learning Objectives

General Education Student Learning Objectives

Categories: Historical Perspectives (GHP)
1. Use a historical approach to analyze and contextualize primary and secondary sources representing divergent perspectives.
2. Use evidence to interpret the past coherently, orally and/or in writing.

Global Perspectives Non-Western (GN)

2. Describe interconnections among regions of the world. (Must include substantial focus on cultures, nations or sub-nationalists in the Caribbean, Latin America, Middle East/North Africa, Asia, Africa, Pacific Islands, or indigenous peoples around the world).
3. Use diverse cultural frames of reference and alternative perspectives to analyze issues.

Course Student Learning Objectives

1. Students will be able to evaluate the origins, policy decisions, conclusion, and aftermath of the Cold War.
2. Students will be able to analyze primary source documents.
3. Students will be able to support a thesis statement in a short essay.

Course Readings

Grades

- Exams (3): 60%. The course is divided into three units. Therefore, there will be three equally weighted exams. The exams will consist of objective questions to quiz your grasp of key concepts and actors, and subjective questions to test your critical analysis. The objective questions will derive from class notes and the subjective questions from class discussions.

- Paper (1): 20%. Answer one of the following prompts below using the primary source documents in The Cold War: A Global History with Documents (p. 277-464) by the date assigned.

  Your answer must include an introductory paragraph with a clear thesis statement, body paragraphs that support your thesis, and a conclusion. You must answer the question using evidence from the primary source documents. The papers must be typed in Times New Roman, 12-point font, double-spaced, and with standard one inch margins. The paper should be no less than three pages, but no more than five pages. A grading rubric will be posted on Canvas. In addition, you must follow the university’s Academic Integrity Policy or face disciplinary measures.

  Late papers will receive a ten-point deduction for every calendar day that it is late. If you were assigned option #1 or #2 and fail to submit a paper, you cannot write on a later option to receive credit; a zero will be recorded.

  There are three writing options and three due dates spaced out across the semester. One-third of the class will write on option #1, another third on option #2, and the final third on option #3. If an insufficient number of students volunteer to write on option #1 or #2, students will be randomly selected and assigned to write the paper to meet the quota.

  - Paper #1: Was the Cold War inevitable? If so, why? If not, who was most responsible for touching off the conflict?

  - Paper #2: How did conflict within the eastern and western blocs, nuclear proliferation, and internal politics contribute to the global confrontation between 1950 and 1972?

  - Paper #3: What circumstances led to end of the Cold War? Why did the Cold War end at that point and not an earlier moment?

- Quizzes: (several) 20%. Students will be given quizzes on the course readings throughout the semester. Students can prepare for this assessment by reading the unit study guide that is posted on Canvas, which provides the student learning objectives and identifications. The quizzes will be given promptly at the start of class and CANNOT be made up. To earn full credit it is recommended that assignments are read prior to class and to attend all classes.

- Class Participation: Although this class is in a lecture setting and you will have dozens of classmates, you are expected to participate in class discussions. To ensure that you are best engaged and not a distraction to others, there will be a NO TECHNOLOGY policy, meaning laptops, cell phones, and other non-life sustaining electronic devices will be prohibited. Violation of this policy will result in a recorded absence and a request for you to leave the classroom.
• Attendance: All students are expected to attend all class meetings and be to class on time. A sign in sheet will be distributed at the beginning of class to record attendance. Students that arrive late will be marked absent. It is reasonable to expect that illness or other unexpected events will cause you to miss a class on occasion. A student may miss three (3) classes without penalty. However, each additional absence will result in a drop of 1/3 of a letter grade from your overall course grade.
