

This course concerns the history of the Roman Empire--that vast region extending from Britain to the Sahara and from the Atlantic to Syria--from the mid-first century B.C. to the sixth century A.D. We shall consider the evolution of the system of government which made possible the administration of the empire, the economic activities and social patterns which characterized the empire, and the beliefs and values motivating individuals and groups within the empire. The world of the Roman Empire appeared to contemporaries of the second century A.D. stable, prosperous, and everlasting--the final stage in the history of human society. It was not, as it turned out, and we shall consider the fundamental changes, including the spread of Christianity, which transformed the empire by the early fourth century. Finally, we shall examine the factors responsible for the decline of the empire in the west during the fifth and sixth centuries.

In addition to the continuous narrative history provided by the textbook (Heichelheim, Yeo, and Ward), students will read various ancient works as assigned. Discussions are integrated into the lecture format, and students are expected to have completed the readings for a given class by the class meeting.

There will be two one-hour examinations, a final (non-cumulative examination), and two 4-6 page papers on assigned topics.

Books required

Heichelheim, Yeo, and Ward, A History of the Roman People
Suetonius, The Twelve Caesars
Pliny, Letters
Apuleius, Golden Ass
Marcus Aurelius, Meditations
Augustine, Confessions
