“Marvelous Possessions:”
How Europeans “Produced” the Americas
(Topics in the Atlantic World)

This readings course will examine how Europeans took possession of new lands and peoples and how, on occasion, Americans resisted or adapted European culture for their own ends. For Europeans, enlightenment goals to catalogue uncharted lands and utopian aims to build new societies often collided with longings for riches and missionary crusades to convert souls. Each of these competing impulses generated different ways of possessing, producing, and consuming the idea and experience of America. In effect, this course will address the cultural production of imperialism and the multiple interactions between “old” and “new” worlds. Through reading secondary sources in history, literature, and anthropology this course will explore how scholars have interpreted the different motives and methods that shaped cultural encounters with and images of the new world and Africa during the sixteenth to twentieth centuries.

Required Texts:

Daniels, Christine & Michael V. Kennedy, eds. Negotiated Empires: Centers and Peripheries in the Americas, 1500-1820. New York: Routledge, 2002

* Texts are available at the UNCG bookstore

Requirements:

This is designed to be an intensive readings course at the graduate level. Your first and primary requirement is to come to class prepared for an in-depth discussion of the assigned readings. You will be asked to prepare short response papers or to produce in-class writings from time to time. No late papers will be accepted. Students will also be asked to do class presentations and a final paper that explores “a possession.” Needless to say, attendance is required and absences will affect your grade.

Class Presentations: Each week students will present and discuss material related to the assigned topic and reading. They might have the class analyze a short primary document, image, or artifact in terms of the concepts of that week’s reading; they might present work of other scholars that challenges or supports the week’s readings or present another historical episode that highlights or problematizes the week’s readings. Students should meet with me to discuss their plans well in advance of their week(s).

Final Paper: This is not designed to be a typical primary research paper but rather a chance to apply one or more of the interpretations studied in the course to a source or group of sources relevant to your own research interests thereby arriving at a new interpretation of your chosen material. The paper should be 10-15 pages and show evidence of original thinking and careful assessment of the secondary sources from the class and their relationship to the primary materials. The primary source(s) used for the final paper may include written documents, visual images, or material artifacts.

Student Learning Outcomes:

* Students will acquire a knowledge of some of the key developments in European interaction with the New World from initial exploration thru the eighteenth and nineteenth century.
* Students will gain familiarity with key concepts in cultural history with a focus on cultural encounters.
* Students will be introduced to classic and recent work on capitalism and imperialism.
* Students will learn how to apply theoretical and conceptual texts to their own research topics.
* Students will have an opportunity to enhance their ability to express ideas and historical analysis in writing, class discussion, and class presentation.

Grading

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Component</th>
<th>Weight</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Class Participation</td>
<td>40%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(includes presentations)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shorter Written Work</td>
<td>30%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Final Paper</td>
<td>30%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
CLASS SCHEDULE:

Introduction
Wed Jan 20
  Introduction: Representing and Interpreting Cultural Encounters

ECOLOGICAL HISTORY
Wed Jan 27

RITUAL AND ENCOUNTERS
Wed. Feb 3
  Class Discussion: Seed, Ceremonies of Possession:

Wed. Feb 10
  Class Discussion: Greenblatt, Marvelous Possessions:
Due: Short Essay (3-5 pp) comparing how Seed and Greenblatt address the moment of encounter and the use of ritual.

ENGLISH ENTERPRISE AND COSMOPOLITAN CULTURE

Wed. Feb 17
  Class Discussion: Games, Web of Empire

Wed. Feb 24
  Class Discussion: Amussen, Caribbean Exchanges

CAPITALISM AND CONSUMPTION

Wed. Mar 3
  Class Discussion: Mintz, Sweetness and Power:
Recommended: Phillip Curtin, Rise and Fall of the Plantation Complex

Wed. Mar 10
  SPRING BREAK!

Wed. Mar 17
  Class Discussion: Breen, Marketplace of Revolution:
Recommended: Richard Bushman, The Refinement of America

Due: Short Essay (3-5 pp) on the role of consumption in the making of the new world.

Wed. Mar 24
Individual Meetings with Dr. Hunter on final paper

Due: 1 page proposal and brief bibliography for final paper

INTERPRETING EMPIRE

Wed. Mar 31
Class Discussion: Anderson, Imagined Communities

Wed. Apr 7
Daniels & Kennedy, eds., Negotiated Empires – selected chapters

Wed. Apr 14
And article of your choice on historical interpretation of Empire or how Empires are formed, and maintained. (Can be from any place or period.)

Due: One page report, synopsis, précis, of your article.

Due: Short essay (3-5 pp) on ideas about empire and nationalism

RETHINKING AMERICAN HISTORY

Wed. Apr 21
Class Discussion: Bender, Rethinking American History in a Global Age (selections – on e-Reserve); Peter Wood, “North America in the Era of Captain Cook: Three Glimpses of Indian-European contact in the age of the American Revolution.” (on e-Reserve)

Wed. Apr 28
Last Class: Brief presentations (5-10 min) on final paper.

Due: Final Papers in my office by 5 PM. Wednesday May 5