- I check school email Monday through Friday ONLY and I always send a response. An online course is available to you 24/7 but please remember that I am not. Just as I do not expect you to spend all of your time on this course, at the expense of other aspects of your life, please grant me the same courtesy.
- If you have not heard from me within 48 hours, in reply to your email, then assume that I did not get the message or any information that was communicated and send it again. It is not necessary for you to send multiple messages in one day about the same topic.
- I share an office with other instructors at UNCG, but since I am a distance educator I am not on campus every day and I do not have an office phone.
- On SKYPE we can do an audio conference and you can ask questions. Instructions for using SKYPE are on our Blackboard page under the button labeled "SKYPE."

Course Description

The main theme we will use to understand the origins of Western Civilization is POWER. Through strategic readings and assignments we will explore the development of power relationships between humans and legal systems, religious frameworks, gender relations, nation states, culture, and technology.

Western Civilization 101 covers the period from Ancient Greece and Rome (c. 750 B.C.E or Before the Christian or Common Era) up to Early Modern Europe, the Hundred Years War and the Renaissance (c. 1500 C.E. or Christian or Common Era). Since we will be looking at over 2,000 years of history, we will touch on the most significant historical events and developments. The nature of a survey course dictates that we will be covering broad geographies and time frames and the pace of the course is brisk.

The textbook will act as a secondary source, providing us with necessary background information, while the discussion board topics will focus on primary sources—documents, such as laws, religious texts, and literature, written at the time (or shortly after) the events they describe.

Required Textbook

Perry, Marvin, et al. Western Civilization. Ideas, Politics, and Society. (Vol. 1 to 1789), 9th edition. (Houghton Mifflin, 2009). ISBN 13: 978-0-547-14742-0 or ISBN 10: 0-547-14742-2.

The text is available on campus at the UNCG bookstore or online. It is also available for a two-hour in house check out at the Jackson Library on UNCG's campus.

You can buy an e-book version of the text directly from the publisher at the link below:

Course Objectives:

1. Students and instructor will create a tolerant environment in which a diversity of opinions are shared and debated.
2. Students will learn to understand and evaluate a variety of methods for using historical evidence.
3. Students will learn how to synthesize central arguments of readings and evaluate major points of agreement or disagreement among historians and historical actors.
4. Students will distinguish between primary and secondary types of historical evidence.
5. Students will develop critical thinking skills from a variety writing exercises and key readings.

Learning Outcomes

Students who spend at least 3 hours a day completing all reading and writing assignments, who actively engage in the material, and are thinking about and reflecting on what they are reading and writing will . . .

- have a firm grasp of key themes in Western Civilization
- improve their writing abilities
- be able to communicate ideas, thoughts, and interpretations more clearly and concisely
- become better independent thinkers, students, and historians

Grading Policies

Students who simply follow all the guidelines for assignments earn grades of C. A grade of C is equivalent to “Average.” Those whose work and contributions to the class community are clearly more advanced than the majority’s earn grades of B, “Above Average,” whereas those who contribute less than the majority earn grades of D, “Below Average.” Work that is truly exceptional earns a grade of A, “Excellent,” whereas work that is substandard and unacceptable earns a grade of F, “Unsatisfactory.” If you are looking to improve your grade at any point during the course then you must complete work above and beyond the minimum requirements for assignments. For example, you can post thoughtful responses to your classmates on the Discussion Board in addition to your original responses.

Grade Breakdown for the Course

- | | |
|--------------------|--------------------|
| • Discussion Board | 40% |

Rules & Procedures

Communication/Questions

Online classes require discipline and time management. Remember that without the normal interactions of a classroom setting, the only way I have to evaluate your participation in this class is through your performance on quizzes and thoughtful Discussion Board posts, as well as the end of term project. Therefore, you should take your readings and responses seriously.

Check the “Announcements” section of Blackboard DAILY, and make certain your UNCG email account works. These are the two primary modes of communication I use, and I want to keep you informed of what’s going on throughout the course.

If you have questions about the course, i.e. syllabus, grading policies, or content, please go to the Discussion Board and click on the topic called, “Questions for the Professor.” More than likely you are not the only student with the same question, and I will not have to answer the same question multiple times if you post your question here. This means of communication is for PUBLIC discourse only. If you have a private concern regarding coursework, your grade, tutoring, etc. please address those to email.

If you have questions/complaints regarding how to use Blackboard or anything technological (web browser settings, downloading information, accessing web links, errors, etc.), please do NOT contact me. Instead, follow the instructions in the “Technical Support” forum in Blackboard. UNCG’s Tech Support staff are the appropriate people to help you with technology issues.

Late Work

No late work will be accepted, and there are no appeals. All the deadlines are listed on this syllabus. If you have special circumstances preventing you from turning in an assignment on time, then you must communicate that to me ASAP. Failure to turn in work on time will result in a grade of zero (0). It is unfair and disrespectful to the rest of class if I make exceptions for a small minority who are incapable of staying on track. Students requesting exceptions will be referred to this policy.

Academic Integrity

On all graded assignments, students are expected to submit their own original work. Copying and pasting text without giving credit to the source is obviously plagiarism, but so is stealing someone else’s idea or interpretation without giving that person credit. Even if you are paraphrasing from memory something you have read in the past, you need to be able to state the source from which you are paraphrasing this material. Please visit the following link: Academic Integrity Policy:
<http://academicintegrity.uncg.edu/complete/>

Anyone caught cheating or plagiarizing WILL receive a grade of F for the assignment without the opportunity to make up the work. Violations will be reported to the University in accordance with the Academic Integrity Policy. Students also risk receiving a final grade of F for the course.

If you need to cite the textbook or a primary source in the Discussion Board or in an exam please use parenthetical documentation at the end of the direct quotation or paraphrase.

For example if citing from the textbook: (Perry, 175) in which Perry is the textbook author and you are citing something from page 175. You would use this citation at the end of a direct quotation or paraphrase of our textbook.

If citing from a primary source: (How They Died, 155) in which How They Died is the title of the primary source and page 155 is the page on which you found the cited information. You would use this citation when you are directly quoting Aristotle or paraphrasing his words.

This course does not require you to use information from outside sources. In Discussion Board you SHOULD NOT quote from outside sources, but rather confine your comments to the materials from the class. Quizzes are taken entirely from material in our textbook.

Discussion Board

Discussion Board topics are designed to test your completion and understanding of the primary sources. Posts open at 8 a.m. on Mondays each week and close at 11 p.m. the following Sunday due date. Participating in these discussions is absolutely key to succeeding in this course. By practicing your writing abilities on a regular and rigorous basis, and sharing your writing with others, you will become better interpreters of the past. Posts will be graded on quality, as well as quantity, of writing. For the first few posts on the Discussion Board, I will provide individualized feedback. Once I am sure that everyone is comfortable with the assignment, I will offer generalized comments directed towards the entire class.

All of the topics require reading primary sources (materials written during the time period in question). These readings are located under the "Documents" button of Blackboard by clicking on the link labeled "CD – Documents in Western Civilization." You must reference these readings in your responses with direct quotations.

Posts should be between 150 and 250 words. Please type your posts in a word processor (such as Microsoft Word) before copying and pasting them to the appropriate discussion forum. This will help you avoid spelling errors, and it is always a good idea to have a backup file in case your work does not post correctly in Blackboard. I drop the lowest Discussion Board grade at the end of the semester. You may always go above the minimum word requirements and in some cases you may feel the need to do so in order to fully answer all questions and fully exploit the evidence.

Students can post their initial response by clicking on "Thread," copying and pasting their work into the message box, and then clicking "Submit." To reply to another person's post, students should select that student's post, and then click "Reply." You are encouraged but NOT required to respond to posts of others. It is a good way to check on your understanding of the material to read what others have written about the readings and compare it to your own point of view. Replying to another person's post means you are going above and beyond the basic requirements for the course and that you are positively contributing to the class community.

Feel free either to agree or disagree with someone else's argument, but be certain to provide convincing reasons explaining why you either agree or disagree. Always be polite and civil on the Discussion Board! Before you post anything, ask yourself if you would actually say these things to a person in a face-to-face environment. Do not allow the anonymity aspect of the Internet to strip you of your common sense and good manners. This same policy of courtesy should apply to all email communication to the instructor and to your classmates.

The Discussion Board is worth 40% of your total grade. There are a total of 12 discussion forums on the Discussion Board. You are required to complete 8 of your choice. Blackboard will automatically record a zero for the four forums you choose not to complete. However, at the end of the course, your final grade will not average in these four assignments. I will grade the first eight posts you record on the Discussion Board. You cannot complete extra posts for additional course credit.

Quizzes

There are thirteen reading quizzes, each one based on one of the chapters from the textbook. Each quiz is made up of 25 multiple-choice questions. Students should only take a quiz after they have read the appropriate chapter thoroughly and taken notes on it. Each quiz will be available for the week during which the textbook chapter is assigned. Posts open at 8 a.m. on Mondays each week and close at 11 p.m. the following Sunday due date. You can only attempt a quiz one time so make sure you are certain of your answers before you submit and that you have allotted the appropriate time to finish the quiz. The date listed on the syllabus is the date by which the quiz is due and on which the window closes. After the window has closed, the quiz will no longer be available, and any students who have not completed that quiz will receive a zero.

If you decide to complete a quiz on the due date and experience any kind of technical difficulties, you will NOT be allowed to make up these quizzes at a later date. Students requesting exceptions will be referred to this policy. I strongly encourage you not to wait until the last moment to complete these quizzes. You should have plenty of time to complete them if you stay on task. I drop the lowest quiz grade at the end of the semester from your final grade for the course. Quizzes are worth 35% of your final grade for this course. Blackboard will automatically record a zero if you choose not to complete one of the quizzes and then that grade will not be averaged into the final grade for the course. However, if you choose to take all thirteen quizzes, then Blackboard will drop the lowest grade you earned on a quiz.

Chapter Critique

The purpose of this assignment is for you to actively read the textbook, to reflect on the usefulness of our text to understanding the history of Western Civilization, and to allow you to explore an area of interest in more depth.

Click on the button labeled "Critique" on our Blackboard homepage for instructions for this assignment. You will submit this assignment at the end of the semester on Blackboard via the Safe Assign system. Safe Assign will check your work for plagiarism before you submit it to me. This assignment will take the place of a final exam for this course and it is worth 25% of your final grade.

The Chapter Critique is due on Monday, April 18, 2011 by 5 p.m. The window for this assignment opens the first day of class and you may complete it at any time during the semester. I STRONGLY encourage you to complete this assignment early, before you get bogged down with the load of the semester.

SKYPE

Look under the button labeled "SKYPE" on our Blackboard homepage for instructions on how to use this program for Virtual Office Hours.

Technical Problem Policy

You CANNOT participate in this course without a working computer and reliable internet connection. Due to the nature of online classes, NO special concessions will be made for technological difficulties. Students are responsible for obtaining and maintaining reliable Internet access. Internet access is available at libraries, schools, hotels, and coffee shops worldwide. Therefore, no extensions will be granted due to lack of Internet access. If you have a technical problem, such as a crash or lockup, while taking a quiz, email me requesting a quiz reset. I will reset your quiz within 24 hours. NOTE: If you wait until the day a quiz is due, you assume responsibility that a technical problem may preclude you from completing the quiz on time. Those who ask for an extension will be referred to this policy.
