HIS 302: Race and Segregation
Course Syllabus

In this course, we will examine the changing ways in which violence and discrimination toward blacks have structured American society in the one hundred and forty years since the end of slavery. At the same time, we will move beyond the stereotype of blacks simply as victims and we will explore the ways in which black women and men took control of their lives. Throughout the course, we will examine why certain black voices have been excluded from the story of American history and why others have been included. We will attempt to integrate diverse black experiences and perspectives into the main narrative of American history, destroying the segregated history that is itself a product of a history of oppression.

Course Requirements: Course requirements include two five- to seven-page papers, a mid-term exam, and a final exam. In addition, you will be responsible for three two- to three-page movie reviews.

Assigned Readings: There are three books assigned for this class: Eric Foner, Forever Free: The Story of Emancipation and Reconstruction (2005); Eric Arnesen, ed., Black Protest and the Great Migration: A Brief History with Documents (2003); and Elaine Brown, A Taste of Power: A Black Woman’s Story (1992). Each of these books can be purchased at the University Bookstore or online. Additional readings are on Blackboard, E-reserves, and the internet. These readings will be linked to the Syllabus on Blackboard and listed under Course Documents as they become available. The assigned reading list may undergo minor changes; students should be sure to consult the most current version of the Syllabus on Blackboard.

Electronic Devices: The use of laptops, tablets, cellular phones, or any other type of electronic device is prohibited during class.

Attendance: Attendance in class is mandatory. The door will close ten minutes after class starts. Once the door closes, students will no longer be admitted to the class and will be considered absent. Each student is allowed two absences. After two unexcused absences, students will receive a zero for participation for that day. The instructor will excuse absences with a doctor’s note or legitimate documentation of other emergencies. Students will be dropped from the class for excessive absences.

Late Assignments: All assignments must be submitted in hard copy. Unless otherwise specified on the syllabus, papers are due in class at the beginning of the class period. Students who submit assignments after the deadline will be penalized with a grade deduction based on the lateness of the assignment. No assignments will be accepted one week after the due date. If a student leaves a paper in the professor’s mailbox, it is the student’s responsibility to check that the professor has received the paper.
Plagiarism: The University defines plagiarism as "intentionally or knowingly representing the words of another, as one's own in any academic exercise."¹ (See the University's Academic Integrity Policies for further information.) All sources (books, articles, documents, internet sites, etc.) used in any paper or assignment must be properly cited or will be considered plagiarism. Any instance of plagiarism will receive a zero and will be referred to the Office of Student Conduct for appropriate action, including suspension or expulsion from the University.

Final Grade Composition

- Participation 10%
- Assignments 15%
- Movies 10%
- Midterm Exam 15%
- Final Exam 20%
- Papers (2x15%) 30%

Participation: Participation in discussion is mandatory. Students should be prepared to discuss the readings on the day that they are assigned. Attendance alone is not sufficient for full participation credit.

Assignments: Students will be given brief in-class and take-home writing and research assignments based on the assigned readings. Students will also be periodically quizzed on readings and lectures. There will be no make-up assignments in the case of a missed class.

Movies: Students are required to write three two- to three-page movie reviews, the first due on February 24, the second on March 21, and the third on April 14.

Exams: There will be two exams in this class: one midterm exam on March 5 and one final exam on May 7.

Papers: Students are required to write two five- to seven-page papers based on assigned readings and lectures, the first due at noon on February 14 and the second due on April 28. All sources in the papers should be properly cited according to the guidelines laid out in The Chicago Manual of Style, which is available on-line.
