HIS 709-01 INTRODUCTORY RESEARCH SEMINAR:
The Nineteenth-Century British Empire
Wednesdays, 3:30-6:20pm, MHRA 1211

PROFESSOR: Dr. Jill Bender
OFFICE: MHRA 2116
OFFICE HOURS: Mondays and Wednesdays, 9:45-10:45am; and by appointment
EMAIL: jcbender@uncg.edu

COURSE DESCRIPTION:
Historians have acknowledged the nineteenth century to be Britain’s “imperial century,” when the island country emerged as the world’s preeminent imperial power. This position of dominance was neither static nor assumed, however. From the abolition of slavery during the 1830s to the internal conflicts of the midcentury to the rise of new imperialism during the final quarter of the nineteenth century, the British imperial experience underwent significant changes and faced considerable challenges. In this introductory seminar, we will examine how other historians have explained this expansion and its impact on both Britain and its colonies. In particular, we will explore questions of power and resistance as students prepare their own research projects based on primary source analysis.

Student Learning Objectives:
Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:
1. Identify an appropriate research topic and pertinent primary and secondary sources.
2. Critically analyze various primary sources within their historical context.
3. Evaluate historiographical debates within the field of imperial history.
4. Conduct independent historical research, and communicate the findings.
5. Develop and support an original written argument.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS:

Attendance and Participation: The basic format of this course will consist of four weeks of group meetings during which we will discuss assigned readings on the British Empire. After these first few weeks, students will meet individually (and sometimes collectively) with the professor to discuss and assist their progress on independent research projects. Attendance at and participation in both class and individual meetings is essential.

Writing Assignments: The primary purpose of this course is to guide students as they write a 25-30 page, research paper. Writing a solid research paper takes time, planning, and rewriting (among other things). This is not a project that can be completed the night before it is due. In order to emphasize the importance of planning and editing, I have developed a number of short assignments that will walk you through the many steps involved in producing a research paper. Below I have identified these steps and provided brief descriptions of each assignment. More information will be provided as the semester progresses.
Step 1: Identify a research question
Identifying a research topic often begins with a question. Not a question that can be answered with a short yes or no or even a simple sentence. Instead, you want to ask a question that will provide deeper insight into the past. As you read the weekly assigned readings during the first weeks of the semester, think about the questions that historians are asking about the nineteenth-century British Empire. How do they answer these questions? What sources do they use to answer these questions? What is their argument? What questions are left unanswered? This final question—what questions are left unanswered—will point you in the direction of your own research question.

Assignment #1 Paragraph: Write a short paragraph (2-3 sentences) explaining your proposed topic and include a related research question. (SLO 1)

Step 2: Building a research topic
Once you have a question in mind, you will want to start to find answers. The first step is to identify possible sources. What have historians already written about this topic? What sources have they used? What sources would allow you to find answers to your own question and are these sources available at Jackson Library, through appropriate internet archives, or via Interlibrary Loan?

Assignment #2 Research Proposal and Bibliography: Your research proposal should identify 1) your topic 2) the historiographical discussion with which you plan to engage and 3) a proposed bibliography that includes both primary and secondary sources. (SLO 1, 3)

Step 3: Conducting Research
Once you have identified possible primary sources, you need to read and analyze them.

Assignment #3 Primary Source Analysis: Write a 1-2 page analysis of a primary source document related to your research paper. Please identify, contextualize, and analyze the source. In particular, explain how this source advances your argument. Attach a copy of the primary source to your analysis. (SLO 2)

Step 4: Creating an argument
Once you begin your primary research, what answers do you find? What patterns can you detect in the sources? And what is the best way to present this argument? Often, this step involves significant outlining and writing as you think about and reconsider the best ways to organize your evidence so that it makes sense to a larger audience.

Assignment #4 Outline: Your outline should include an introduction that 1) introduces the topic in an engaging manner 2) sets out the argument (including historiographical contribution) and 3) prepares the reader. Your full outline should then include detailed bullet points and section paragraphs that make the development of the argument clear. (SLO 1, 3, 4, and 5)
Step 5: Writing and writing and writing
Writing a research paper rarely (never?) occurs in one go. Rather, you will want to write a draft, receive peer reviews, and rewrite (editing in response to reviews). Furthermore, reviewing each other’s work will strengthen your own writing by providing you with an opportunity to consider other arguments and how to present your questions and critiques in a helpful and constructive manner.

Assignment #5 Polished Rough Draft: Your polished rough draft should be as close to a final draft as you can produce without formal feedback (minimum length of 20 pages), and should include endnotes/footnotes and a bibliography. (SLO 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5)

Assignment #6 Peer Review: Please provide a one-page, typed review of your peers’ papers (each student will review two papers) and provide copies to me as well. Be kind, but also offer constructive feedback—What are the paper’s strengths? Where is there room for improvement? Can the argument be clearer or better supported in places?

Final Papers (SLO 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5): Students will produce a 25-30 page research paper based on primary and secondary sources. Although paper topics will vary according to individual student interests, all papers must relate to the course theme of the nineteenth-century British Empire. The final paper with bibliography and notes must be submitted via email to jcbender@uncg.edu by 5pm, Monday, April 27th.

Due Dates: The assignments for this class are designed to build upon each other and guide students toward the production of an original research paper. As a result, it is essential that students turn in all assignments, on time. Any late assignments will not be accepted, and a 0 will be recorded.

Academic Integrity Policy: Please cite your sources using footnotes or endnotes. Plagiarism is a breach of the university’s academic integrity policy. For more information on this policy, see http://academicintegrity.uncg.edu/complete/.

Final Grades will be calculated according to the following:

| Participation and Attendance (both in class and during individual meetings): | 15% |
| Writing Assignments: | 45% (total) |
| #1 Paragraph | 5% |
| #2 Research Proposal and Bibliography | 5% |
| #3 Primary Source Analysis | 5% |
| #4 Outline | 10% |
| #5 Polished Rough Draft | 10% |
| #6 Peer Reviews | 10% |
| Final Paper: | 40% |
Letter grades for PhD students will be assigned as follows:

- 93-100 A
- 90-92 A-
- 87-89 B+
- 87-89 B
- <82 F

Letter grades for MA students assigned as follows:

- 93-100 A
- 90-92 A-
- 87-89 B+
- 87-89 B
- 77-79 C+
- 73-76 C
- 80-82 B-
- <72 F

---

CLASS MEETINGS

Week 1: January 14
Introduction

Week 2: January 21
Getting our Bearings: The Nineteenth-Century British Empire

January 23
Due: Assignment #1 Paragraph (Please upload to course Blackboard site by 5pm, Friday, January 23rd)

Week 3: January 28
Writing about Britain and its Empire: The Metropole

Week 4: February 4
Writing about Britain and its Empire: The Periphery

Reading: Alan, Lester, “Imperial Circuits and Networks: Geographies of the British Empire,” History Compass 4, 1 (2006):
Week 5: February 11 Walking Through the Process

February 13 Due: Assignment #2 Research Proposal and Bibliography (Please deliver a copy to MHRA 2116 by noon, Friday, February 13th)

UNIT II: RESEARCHING, WRITING, AND MORE RESEARCHING, WRITING

Week 6: February 18 Individual Meetings

Week 7: February 25 In-class discussion of individual projects

February 27 Due: Assignment #3 Primary Source Analysis (Please deliver a copy to MHRA 2116 by noon, Friday, February 27th)

Week 8: March 4 Individual Meetings

Week 9: March 11 SPRING BREAK—No Class

Week 10: March 18 Individual Meetings (as needed)

March 20 Due: Assignment #4 Outline (Please deliver a copy to MHRA 2116 by noon, Friday, March 20th)

Week 11: March 25 Individual Meetings
March 30  Due (Group 1): Assignment # 5 Polished Rough Draft (complete with notes and bibliography). Please upload a copy to the course Blackboard site by 12pm (noon), Monday, March 30th.

UNIT III: REVIEWING, REVISING, AND POLISHING

Week 12:  April 1  Discussion of Rough Drafts (Group 1)

Due: Assignment #6 Peer Review (Please bring two copies of your peer reviews to class)

April 6  Due (Group 2): Assignment # 5 Polished Rough Draft (complete with notes and bibliography). Please upload a copy to the course Blackboard site by 12pm (noon), Monday, April 6th.

Week 13:  April 8  Discussion of Rough Draft (Group 2)

Due: Assignment #6 Peer Review (Please bring two copies of your peer reviews to class)

Week 14:  April 15  Individual Meetings

Week 15:  April 22  Final Comments and Conclusion

April 27  FINAL PAPERS are due Please deliver a copy to MHRA 2116 and email an electronic copy to me at jcbender@uncg.edu by 5pm on Monday, April 27.