For Whom Planned

Students in the Social Studies Teacher licensure track. This is a core requirement for licensure candidates and that means you must make a C or better to qualify for your teaching license.

Scope and Purpose of the Course

The teacher licensure standards for content knowledge in social studies mandated by the state of North Carolina require that teacher candidates must demonstrate depth of content knowledge in “the process of critical inquiry in history and the social sciences used to examine change over time and develop historical perspectives,” including:

- identifying and framing a problem
- using a variety of sources
- using primary and secondary resources
- evaluating the credibility of sources
- putting sources into historical context
- investigating, interpreting, and analyzing multiple viewpoints
- clearly and effectively articulating conclusions

HIS 430 is an introduction to historical thinking and the research process designed to address these historical methods content standards for all social studies licensure candidates. This is not a course about teaching history but it is directly relevant to developing skills necessary to be an effective history teacher. This is a course about how knowledge is created in the discipline of history. We will use a variety of research resources including manuscripts, reference sources, monographs, scholarly journals, the internet, and repositories such as the Library of Congress. You will develop a case study project using archival resources in our University Archives. The ultimate goal of the course is to engage in the creative process of original research and interpretation of historical evidence.

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of this course students will be able to:

1. Inquiry and Creativity: Think creatively about different kinds of research questions inspired by primary source documents.
2. Courage and Historical Thinking: Ask interesting questions whose answers you don't know and recognize the kinds of questions that can be addressed by historical research.
3. Analysis: Contextualize primary source documents in different ways; interpret different types of primary sources.
4. Research: Identify and evaluate appropriate scholarship and primary sources for investigating different kinds of research questions. Use research results to improve your questions.
5. Synthesis and communication: Present research findings in a scholarly format that offer audiences a clear understanding of the complexity of the topic, and recognize how writing is integral to the research process.
6. Professional Ethics: Practice history with integrity based on the American Historical Association Standards of Professional Conduct and on the evidence-based standards outlined in Turabian, Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations
7. Critical Thinking: Use peer review, instructor feedback, self-analysis, and research findings to effectively revise research design and written communication.

8. Collaboration: Work effectively in collaborative teams for peer review to improve research design and communication of research findings at different stages in the research process.

Writing and the Historical Research Process

Writing is integral to the research and discovery process in the discipline of history. From the skills of effective note-taking and accurate transcription in the initial data collection process, to the first stages of analysis when you begin to identify patterns in what your evidence shows, to the ultimate interpretation of what the evidence means, different kinds of writing are essential for every stage of the research process. You will practice all of these forms of writing as your research develops. Along the way you will be learning to engage in peer review of writing as an important tool for sharpening your thinking about what your evidence means. Look for the different ways that writing works in the research process so that you can use those strategies in your research later in your major and ultimately in your teaching practice.

Teaching Methods and Assignments for Achieving Learning Outcomes

This course uses a variety of teaching methods including videos, written materials, websites, discussions, and assignments that ask participants to demonstrate mastery of learning outcomes. Through weekly assignments, discussions, and interaction with the instructor and participants, the course provides support, feedback, and resources to support the development of historical thinking and research skills.

Evaluation and Grading

Discussion Board and Class Participation	15%
Module 1 Assignment: Mamie Banner Case Study	20%
Module 2 Assignment: Source Analysis	20%
Module 3 Assignment: Annotated Bibliography and Source Analysis	20%
Module 4 Assignment: Final Paper	25%

The Module Assignments will all relate in some way to the research project for this semester. You will be developing a research plan and final paper (about 7-10 pages with annotated bibliography) based on the history of UNCG during the 1920s. The goal is to locate appropriate primary sources and scholarship to contextualize student experience at two different scales—within the local history of the institution, and connected to social history beyond the institution. How did UNCG change during the 1920s? and How was the experience of the students shaped by changes beyond the local campus context?

Course Grade Scale: A 94-100 / A- 90-93 / B+ 87-89 / B 84-86 / B- 80-83 / C+ 77-79 / C 74-76 / C- 70-73 / D+ 67-69 / D 64-66 / D- 60-63 / F 59 and below.

CONTRA POWER STATEMENT

!! As your instructor, I am committed to creating a productive and non-discriminatory learning environment of mutual respect. Title IX and UNCG's school policy prohibit gender-based harassment, sexual harassment, and sex discrimination for all members of the University community. Harassment can come in many forms - both direct and indirect - and can occur in subtle or overt ways. Traditionally, harassment is seen from formal power-over structure. However, harassment can occur without a formal power structure. Contrapower, when a student harasses an instructor or peer, is a type of behavior that can create an intimidating environment in and outside of the classroom. Either form of harassment can include direct or indirect comments, physical intimidation, emails, anonymous notes and course evaluations. Both Contrapower and traditional forms of harassment are prohibited and subject to the same kinds of accountability applied to offenses against protected categories, such as race, national origin, religion, sexual orientation, etc.

If you experience or witness such instances of harassment, please seek out the following resources:

- UNCG Counseling Center (non-reporting agency/confidential): 336.334.5874
- Murphie Chappell, Title IX Coordinator (reporting agent) 336.256.0362 or mechappe@uncg.edu
- University Police (reporting agent) 336.334.4444
